#PND Hour

What is PND Hour?

The main aims of setting up the #PNDHour are :

- To provide a safe space to discuss topics surrounding pre and postnatal illness.
- To help connect those affected by the illness, and provide support for each other.
- To increase awareness and encourage open conversations about the illness.
- To discuss where improvements could be made in all areas of the support provided for those affected.

A place to discuss perinatal mental illness openly, honestly and without judgement, helping break down the stigma attached to this illness and bring together charities, groups, professionals, families and importantly the mothers affected by perinatal mental illness for peer support.

Anyone is welcome to join, its held every Wednesday at 8pm(gmt) on Twitter just use the #PNDHour hashtag to join in!

More info here: <http://www.pndandme.co.uk/pndhour/>

SANE: www.sane.org.uk

SANE provides emotional support and information to anyone affected by mental illness, including families, friends and carers. Services and support options are designed to provide a range of ways of getting and giving support, and considering self-help and self-management strategies.

Elefriends is managed by Mind, the mental health charity and its setup was supported by the Cabinet Office's Social Action Fund. The community is moderated to help to keep it safe. Moderators are available to respond to any questions or help with difficult situations during these hours:

- 6am-9am and 10am-2am 7 days a week

Apps

PND Coach (Google Play App)

This application is meant to be used as a feelgood tool to help you lift your spirits on a day to day basis. It offers the possibility to educate yourself on postnatal depression, to use a diary to register positive feelings and to create a list of allies you can reach out to when in need. This application is not meant to replace the help received by specialists and medical professionals. This is a feelgood tool created to help women go through the difficult days of new motherhood by instilling optimism and self-care in their everyday lives.

Baby Buddy (google play/Apple)

Baby Buddy is designed to be a personal baby expert who will guide you through your pregnancy and the first six months of your baby's life. The app has been designed with parents and professionals to help you give your baby the best start in life and support your health and wellbeing. It incorporates maternal mental health tools and video's.

Hoop (Google Play/Apple)

Find activities for parents, babies and toddlers in your area.
